Your learning journey

In this course, you have learned about how best to work with stakeholders by anticipating their needs and communicating progress or results from a campaign. From analyzing, filtering, and preparing metrics and insights, to creating visualizations, presentations, and dashboards, this course covered a lot of material.

Let's reflect on how far you've come. Consider the following questions:

- Are there concepts or portions of content that you would like to learn more about?
- Is there anything unexpected or surprising that you have learned?
- How do you feel about interacting with stakeholders in a workplace environment?
- What have you learned about working with stakeholders that can help you in the future?

Submit 5–10 sentences (100–200 words total). Then, visit the discussion forum to read what other learners have written. Choose two or more posts to comment on to help encourage fellow learners on their learning journey.
